

The diagram illustrates three types of lines used in page layout design. A solid magenta line represents the bleed line, which is the outermost boundary. A solid red line represents the cut line, which is the inner boundary where the page is trimmed. A dashed green line represents the text safe margin, which is the area where text and graphics should be placed to avoid being cut off. A central box contains a key defining these lines.

KEY

BLEED LINE

CUT LINE

TEXT SAFE MARGIN